

PartArt4OW Third Open Call is Now Open

Reimagining a Sustainable & Equitable Blue Economy Through Art and Participation

We are excited to announce the launch of the Third and final Open Call of PartArt4OW — an opportunity for artists, researchers, creatives, civic organisations and interdisciplinary teams across Europe to develop participatory art initiatives (PAIs) addressing the future of the blue economy.

This call invites bold, inclusive and community-driven projects that explore how our societies interact with oceans, rivers and water-based economic systems — and how these relationships can become more sustainable, just and resilient.

Call opening: 8th January 12:00

Call closing: 10th March 12:00

What is this call about?

The Third Open Call focuses on rethinking the blue economy beyond growth-only narratives. We are looking for projects that:

- Engage local communities in coastal or inland water contexts
- Combine artistic practice, scientific knowledge and lived experience
- Foster dialogue and reflection around water-based economies
- Make invisible processes and impacts visible through art
- Embrace participation, inclusion and co-creation as core methodologies

All artistic disciplines are welcome — from visual and performing arts to digital, sound, literary and experimental practices.

Who can apply?

Applications are open to:

- Artists and creatives
- Researchers and scientists
- Cultural organisations, NGOs and grassroots collectives
- Interdisciplinary and cross-sector teams

Projects must demonstrate:

- A strong participatory approach
- Collaboration with communities and relevant blue economy actors
- Public engagement activities (workshops, exhibitions, performances, etc.)

Initiatives involving under-represented groups or communities with limited access to cultural and scientific spaces are especially encouraged.

What support will selected projects receive?

The 6 selected Participatory Art Initiatives (PAIs) will receive:

- Up to €50,000 in funding
- A 6-month implementation period
- Tailored mentorship and training
- An online bootcamp on participatory art & water challenges
- Visibility through PartArt4OW's European communication channels
- Access to a growing pan-European ecosystem of artists, scientists and civic actors

All projects will commit to a Climate Pact Pledge, integrating sustainable and low-carbon practices.

This is the third and final Open Call of PartArt4OW

Don't miss the opportunity to be part of a Europe-wide community shaping new relationships with oceans and inland waters through art.

About PartArt4OW

PartArt4OW (Participatory Art for Society Engagement with Ocean and Water) is a Horizon Europe-funded project that supports artistic and cultural actors in working with scientists, citizens and communities to address ocean and water challenges through participatory approaches.

Through open calls, an accelerator programme, a Sailing Lab and a growing ecosystem of initiatives, PartArt4OW demonstrates how art can play a transformative role in shaping more sustainable relationships with our waters.
